Bridal Procession. Berchtesgaden is a pretty little Bavarian town of about 2600 inhabitants, situated in the midst of a small principality, the dominions of which were so mountainous and so limited in extent that it was formerly jestingly said to be as high as it was broad. The picture shows a bridal procession of peasants on their way to the village church. First of all comes the band, then follow the bridegroom and the bride's father, after them the bridesmaids with their grooms and finally the Crown bearers with the friends of the happy couple bringing up the rear.
